JUROR

Terry Jelsing has worked professionally as an artist, teacher, curator, and arts administrator for more than 25 years. He lives on his family's historic homestead near Rugby, North Dakota, where — in a granary turned studio — he works in a variety of media to create two- and three-dimensional artwork and large public commissions.

He began teaching art at Rugby High School in 2006. Previously he taught art and design at North Dakota State University, Fargo. Between 1992 and 1999, first as curator and later as executive director, he marshaled the transformation of a former International Harvester branch house into Fargo's award-winning Plains Art Museum. Jelsing earned his master of arts and master of fine arts degrees from the University of New Mexico, Albuquerque, and his bachelor of fine arts degree from the University of North Dakota, Grand Forks.
