Minot State University's CRIMINAL JUSTICE program exposes students to relevant social, political, economic, and philosophical issues confronting the justice system both within the U.S. and in other countries. To meet the demands created by issues such as prison overcrowding, rising crime rates and violence, domestic abuse, and international and domestic terrorism, the need for qualified graduates has increased significantly in recent years.

The students of the Department of Criminal Justice's programs not only gain knowledge about the etiology and dynamics of crime, the structures and functions of agencies, and the general operation of the criminal justice system, but they also acquire practical skill to implement this knowledge for developing evidence-based approaches and solutions to the ever-changing issues facing contemporary society.

Coursework

The curriculum offered by the MSU Criminal Justice program is one of the most comprehensive in the upper Midwest. The well-balanced course of study addresses issues in each component of the criminal justice system. Students are required to augment their studies with courses in sociology, psychology, political science, humanities, science, math, English, and physical education.

Students can augment their degree with minors in Police Management and Investigation; Law and Legal Studies; and Offenders, Risk Assessment and Corrections, as well as a concentration in Criminal Justice Research and Policy Evaluation. Consideration should also be given to coursework in business, foreign language, computer science, counseling, and other academic areas which best correspond to the student's established career goals.

Minot State also offers a collaborative doctorate (Ph.D.) program with the University of North Dakota.

Career Opportunities

The focus of undergraduate education in criminal justice at MSU is directed towards the development of both applied practitioners and the advanced training of those seeking to pursue a master's or doctoral degree. As a social and behavioral science degree, the criminal justice program prepares students for a wide variety of career opportunities in law, law enforcement, the courts, corrections, and juvenile justice.

Criminal justice professionals may interact with agencies at the federal, state and local level and with professionals in private security, loss prevention, counseling and treatment.

POST (Peace Officer Training Program)

The Minot State University Criminal Justice Program, in collaboration with Lake Region State College offers the North Dakota Peace Officer training program each spring semester. The program, which runs for 16 weeks starting after Martin Luther King Day, gives criminal justice students interested in a law enforcement related career the opportunity to graduate with their undergraduate degree and the POST certification.
