Coursework

Management majors at Minot State University begin with core classes in accounting, business, marketing and management and then delve into higher level coursework in human resources, operations management, international business, organizational behavior, strategic management, and entrepreneurship.

The management program is accredited by the International Accreditation Council for Business Education (IACBE).

What can you do with a management degree?

Sound management is one of the most important aspects of an organization's financial success. Managers typically plan, direct, and oversee operations and employees. They may supervise an entire company, government office, specific department, or territory. Managers often specialize in a particular field, such as sales, finance, health services, human resources, social and community services, government, and education.

Internships

MSU management students can apply classroom knowledge to real-world settings through internships. Many internships are initiated by employers, but students may—with departmental approval—seek out and develop their own internship opportunities. Internships may be full time, part time, or project oriented. All internships provide students with great hands-on learning opportunities and some lead to offers of employment.

Do you have what it takes to be a good manager?

Successful managers are skilled:

- Leaders – emotionally stable, enthusiastic and self-assured
- Communicators – relate well both to staff and superiors
- Organizers – make and execute plans to meet employers' goals
- Problem solvers – identify and resolve problems
- Flexible – able to see things from different perspectives

Employment outlook

A host of industries employs managers. Due to globalization, businesses are expanding around the world and creating more entry-level management positions for recent graduates.
