

Dear Minot State students,

As Minot State monitors the situation with your safety in mind, we are planning to be open and operational for fall 2020 with a mix of on-campus and online courses available! For students who return for on-campus classes, we are developing appropriate safety measures for our campus community for academic and other activities. We are currently working on incorporating a number of health and safety measures on campus to ensure the safety of our community. Precautions may include hybrid classes, limiting the number of students gathered in person, technologies embedded into courses at the start of the term, and changes in residence halls, dining services, and other social areas across campus to ensure safe interactions.

Throughout this pandemic, a COVID response team has been meeting and planning weekly as the situation has unfolded. Several precautionary measures have already been installed across campus, from additional hand sanitizing stations to protective barriers at the cashier's windows. Masks have been ordered for the campus and will be available if needed. We will continue to update the campus as safety precautions are initiated.

As we make a transition back to campus, we are working to support you with advising, registration, financial aid, student health, housing, and dining questions. We will continue to be available virtually, now and in the future, to support you as you work to achieve your educational goals. We know we will need to alter our operations as we return to campus, for the well-being of our community, but in true Minot State spirit, working together will allow us to remain committed to your academic success. We are anxiously awaiting your safe return in the fall.
