COMMENCEMENT SPEAKERS

LORI NEHLSSEN'S journey through education and research is a narrative of dedication, intellectual curiosity, and leadership, marking her steadfast commitment to education. Her experiences have honed her leadership skills and contributed significantly to the academic community.

In January 2024, Lori achieved a significant milestone by successfully defending her thesis on the preparedness of elementary teachers in the U.S. and Canada to teach science, completing her Master of Education degree at Minot State University only two short years after completing her Bachelor of Science in Education with a Major in Elementary Education in December 2021. These achievements and her acceptance into the Doctorate in Education program at the University of Northern Colorado, beginning in August 2024, speak volumes about her academic prowess and unwavering pursuit of knowledge.

Working alongside Dr. Daniel Conn from Minot State University and Dr. Franklin Allaire from the University of Houston, Lori conducted a study assessing elementary grade teachers' competencies in teaching science. This endeavor employed the CP2R analytic tool, highlighting Lori's ability to bridge theoretical frameworks with empirical research. Her dedication to this project was evident as she presented her findings at the American Association for Teaching and Curriculum (AATC) conferences in Chicago, IL in 2022 and Louisville, KY in 2023. Furthermore, at the Association for Science Teacher Education in New Orleans, Lori's research explored the efficacy of science teaching through the Sci-TES analytical tool, cementing her reputation as a rising scholar.

Lori's academic journey was punctuated by presenting three insightful papers at the AATC Conference in Louisville. There, she showcased her passion for education and ability to communicate complex ideas clearly and eloquently. Her role in introducing the keynote speaker, Dr. Adrienne Dixson of the University of Kentucky, further demonstrated her professionalism and poise, earning her widespread respect and admiration from her peers.

Beyond her scholarly endeavors, Lori has steadfastly committed to integrating diverse knowledge and perspectives into STEM education. Her involvement in the CIRCLES Alliance Grant exemplifies this, leading to her presentation of significant findings at the North Dakota Indian Education Summit in Bismarck in July 2023. In her advocacy for the Plum River Native Prairie project here in Minot, Lori demonstrated her dedication to inclusivity and cultural representation within educational contexts. Aside from research and academia, Lori is a full-time sixth-grade physical science teacher at Erik Ramstad Middle School and a mother of four. Her dedication to nurturing young minds and her ability to juggle rigorous academic pursuits with success highlights her passion for education and her contribution to the educational community.

Lori Nehlsen's story involves intellectual rigor, community service, and leadership. She inspires those around her and contributes significantly to the field of education. Her journey reflects a commitment to advancing educational practices and fostering an inclusive learning environment, making her a distinguished member of the academic community.

OLIVIA REISER is the daughter of Bob and Nancy Reiser.

Olivia graduated in 2020 from North Star High School in Cando and began her college career at Lake Region State College (LRSC). She graduated from LRSC after one year with a fitness trainer technician (FTT) degree and an Associate of Science degree. At LRSC, Olivia became an ACSM certified personal trainer. To continue her aspiration of exercise science, she decided to follow in the footsteps of 10 family members by choosing Minot State University.

While at Minot State, Olivia has worked as a hydration specialist for the football team for the last three years. She has also assisted the athletic trainers for the baseball team, women's soccer team, basketball teams, and wrestling teams. She has spent countless hours in the training room doing laundry, performing various duties around the training room, and helping with the rehabilitation of athletes. She was instrumental in reviving the Kin Krew Club at MSU and served as the club president since March 2022. The club provides students with networking, professional development, and educational opportunities. Through the club, Olivia was able to obtain IASTM Hawkgrrips training. She was fortunate to have an opportunity to study abroad in the Dominican Republic with Dr. Eckmann. While there, she instructed fitness classes for tourists as well as the people of the island. On campus, Olivia has also been involved with intramural activities such as bowling and volleyball.

During her last two years, she has been a personal trainer and group exercise coach at Premier Movement. She enjoys helping individuals learn how different muscles function and teaching clients how to stay active. She volunteers at Prairie Grit with their gymnastics program and various other activities. Olivia also had the opportunity to work with Parkinson's patients at Trinity Hospital, assisting them in group exercise classes. She taught homeschool students under Dr. Kelsey Higginson's homeschool PE program at MSU which provides those families with physical education opportunities.

Olivia enjoys spending time with family and friends. She loves to spend time working out, playing pickleball, reading, and relaxing at the lake. Today Olivia is graduating Summa Cum Laude with a Bachelor of Science in Exercise Science and Rehabilitation and a Bachelor of Science in Education with a Major in Physical Education. She hopes to have a teaching job starting in the fall.

THE UNIVERSITY'S HISTORICAL OVERVIEW

Since 1913, Minot State University has steadily evolved in fulfilling its commitment to serving North Dakota and creating opportunities for its citizens. Today, the University offers a wide array of undergraduate programs in the liberal arts, the professions, and graduate education.

Originally established as a two-year normal school devoted to preparing teachers for service in the prairie schools of northwestern North Dakota, the institution soon expanded its offering in response to the needs of the region, a pattern repeated many times in Minot State's subsequent history. Those who governed the institution recognized the need to add teacher preparation programs in the fine arts, liberal arts and sciences, and professional fields.

In 1924, the institution attained the authority to offer the baccalaureate degree, and programs in the liberal arts began at Minot State. Programs in the sciences, humanities, fine arts, and social sciences were developed. Later, programs in special education, speech-language pathology, business, and nursing were added. In 1964, the school's name changed to Minot State College, and its mission expanded to include graduate education at the master's level.

In 1987, Minot State College became Minot State University and today offers master's degrees in speech-language pathology, education, information systems, management, sports management, music, science and special education, and a specialist degree in school psychology.

Minot State University boasts a modern campus. During the last two decades, 14 of its 17 academic and administrative buildings have been constructed or undergone extensive remodeling or expansion. These include Model Hall, Memorial Hall, MSU Dome, Herb Parker Stadium, Gordon B. Olson Library, Student Center, Administration Building, Cyril Moore Science Center, Hartnett Hall, Swain Hall, Student Wellness Center, Old Main, Facilities Management Building, and Crane Hall.

MSU MISSION

Mission Statement

Minot State University is a public university dedicated to excellence in education, scholarship, and community engagement achieved through rigorous academic experiences, active learning environments, commitment to public service, and a vibrant campus life.

Vision

Minot State University will:

- Deliver high-quality education where, when, and how it is needed to a diverse, multi-generational student population.
- Prepare students and the institution for the evolving social and technological challenges of the world.
- Inspire scholarship and creative activity among students, faculty, and staff.
- Empower graduates with a distinctive combination of professional expertise and broad-based education to support varied careers and productive lives.

UNIVERSITY MEDALLION

The tradition of the chief officer of an educational institution wearing a medallion dates back to the Middle Ages when a seal was used to mark documents as important. Because the actual possession was so significant, the seal was usually worn around the neck for safekeeping. Wearing the seal eventually became a symbol of authority.

The Minot State University Presidential Medallion worn by President Steven Shirley is a replica of the seal created when the institution celebrated its 75th year in 1988. Minot State University gained university status in 1987, and the seal was created to recognize that achievement. The seal incorporates 1913, the year of the institution's founding, and the words "teaching, research, service," the three purposes of the University. A book is depicted to signify knowledge. Minot State University's location within North Dakota is indicated by the illustration of a prairie rose, the state flower, and wheat, one of the state's significant agricultural products. The medallion has been worn by MSU Presidents Gordon B. Olson, H. Erik Shaar, and David Fuller. President Shirley is now entrusted with the cast bronze medallion. He wears it as part of his attire during formal ceremonies, such as commencements, attended by faculty in full academic regalia.

UNIVERSITY MACE

A world symbol of tradition and a bond to centuries of academic rituals, a university mace is used only for formal events. Such rituals and symbols provide a university with community pride while establishing an enduring tie to the past. The University Mace, carried today by Dr. Ethan Valentine, was also created for the University's 75th anniversary and to symbolize the University's tradition as an established institution of higher education. It was designed and handcrafted by Byron Verbitsky, an MSU employee at the time. The mace is meticulously carved of mahogany wood. Crowned by the University Seal, it has three posts below representing the teaching, service, and research purposes of the University. The number 75 marks the University's attainment of its first three-quarters of a century in 1988.

DEGREES

Associate in Applied Science degrees are two year vocational-technical education programs through Dakota College at Bottineau. AAS degrees require at least 60 semester hours.

Associate degrees consist primarily of diverse, introductory-level courses in academic and professional areas and require at least 60 semester hours. A full-time student can generally complete an associate degree in two years.

Baccalaureate degrees require a minimum of 120 semester hours, made up of academic courses in general education, major, minor, concentration, and/or elective areas. Majors may be in humanities, social science, sciences, mathematics, or in the professions. A baccalaureate degree can usually be earned in four years by a full-time student.

Master's degrees require a minimum of 30 semester hours of graduate credit. A master's degree is generally completed in one or two years of study beyond the baccalaureate degree.

Specialist's degrees require three full years of study beyond the baccalaureate degree. The specialist degree in school psychology at MSU requires 71 graduate semester hours, which includes a full year of internship.

SCHOOL COLORS

Huldah Lucile Winsted, a member of the original 1913 faculty, looked out her window in Old Main and saw beautiful red geraniums blooming en masse and chose the colors of the plant for the school's colors. Those colors have been Minot State University's traditional colors ever since and still are reflected in the name of the student newspaper Red and Green, and in a variety of publications and areas on campus. Winsted taught geography and served as dean of women for many years. She was published and quite well known for her poetry. In addition, Winsted is credited for being the first librarian at MSU and for donating many of the early volumes that established the library at the institution.

INTERNATIONAL FLAGS

Flags are displayed representing MSU's graduating international students. MSU proudly hosts over 233 students from over 53 different countries around the globe. Cultural diversity significantly enriches an educational experience for all students, and MSU's strategic priorities include fostering a welcoming atmosphere that encourages global understanding through education abroad, cultural programming, and support of international students and scholars.

REGALIA AND THE HISTORY OF THE HOOD

Academic regalia originated in European universities between the 12th and 13th centuries. In England during the second half of the 14th century, statutes of certain colleges forbade excess in apparel and prescribed the wearing of a long gown with a hood by faculty and students. By this time, the hood was separated from the gown, and by the 15th century, was seen not just as a means to keep one warm, but also as a token of graduation. Undergraduate hoods were a somber black with no lining, while graduate and high-born hoods had the option of a furred or fur-lined hood. By the 16th century, undergraduate hoods were abandoned and the mortarboard was adopted. These may have come from the squarish cap worn by the masons of the Middle Ages, or perhaps was suggested by the shape of the books which occupied so much time of the scholar. Today, the gowns of bachelor's and master's are black, and some undergraduates can be seen wearing a gold stole representing MSU honors. Students receiving their master's degrees still wear hoods with colors, which over time have become distinctive to each discipline to distinguish them from their colleagues in other fields of learning. Tradition holds that as the candidate is awarded their master's degree, the candidate's mentor and others in authority place the hood over their robe.

Minot State University graduate candidates wear a hood lined in red and green, and edged with the color representing the scholarly field of the wearer:
