Sally Jeppson has worked in the arts for over 30 years. Exhibitions are her passion and she recognizes how artwork selection, exhibition design and installation can showcase artists' work, generate narrative and delight audiences. Jeppson has an MA in Art History from University of California Davis and has organized hundreds of exhibitions. Jeppson and her artist-husband Deane Colin Fay operate an exhibition design business, Starview Enterprises, Inc. They've designed exhibits for museums, galleries and organizations that include interpretive materials and interactive displays. As gallery manager for the The Arts Center in Jamestown, ND and former curator at the Plains Art Museum in Fargo, ND, Jeppson has served on numerous grant panels and has juried student, community and academic exhibitions. As a consultant, she has worked to place artist's work in hospitals, eldercare centers and community centers. Jeppson works with programs that utilize the arts to shape dialogue, generate community development and social engagement. Drawing upon unique life experiences, world-wide travel and personal explorations, Jeppson offers a unique perspective as juror. She sees exhibitions as "teaching moments" and believes the Americas exhibitions expose students, community and regional visitors to exceptional art and the stories that art can tell. She is excited to jury the Americas All Media exhibition, citing the variety and calibre of the past years' submissions as excellent.
