

Class Climate Course Evaluations

The Student Perceptions of Learning electronic course evaluation is distributed to students at the end of each session. Students can access their evaluations through their campus email or through Blackboard. A dashboard is available in Blackboard that shows students which course evaluations need to be completed. It also shows the deadline to submit their course evaluations. Only students who have access to completing the course evaluation will see a link to it. Instructors can only see which course evaluations are open and the current response rate for courses where they are the only instructor. They will not be able to see courses which have multiple instructors assigned.

The course evaluation dashboard is a tool link in Blackboard. In order for students and instructors to see the dashboard, a link must be added in a content area, learning module, or folder.

Adding the tool link:

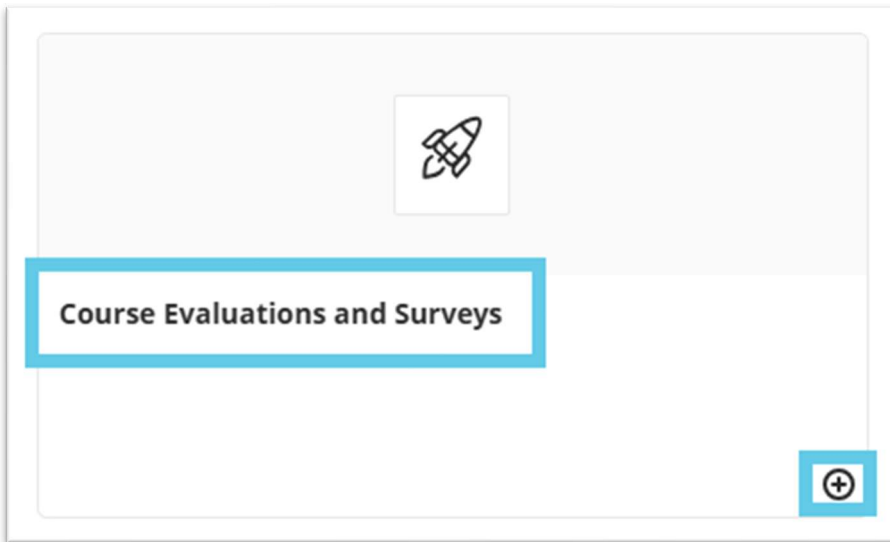

1. Locate where you want to place the link and click on the plus sign.

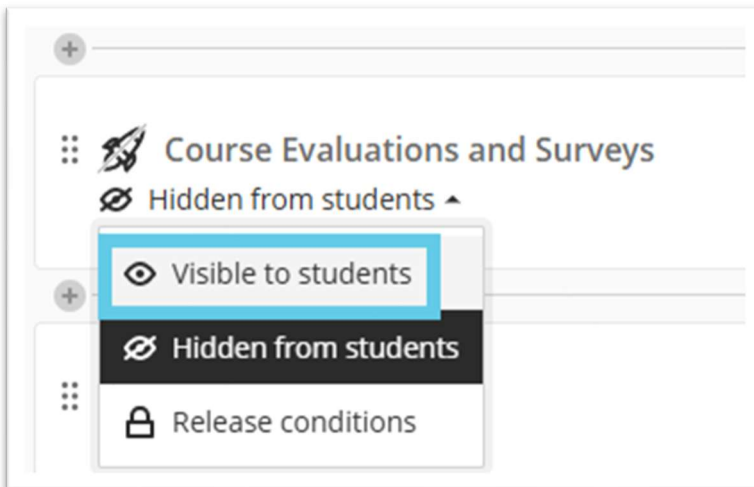

2. Click on Content Market

- Find Course Evaluations and Surveys and click on the plus sign.

- The link has now been placed in the content area, learning module, or folder. Below the link, change it from hidden to Visible to students.

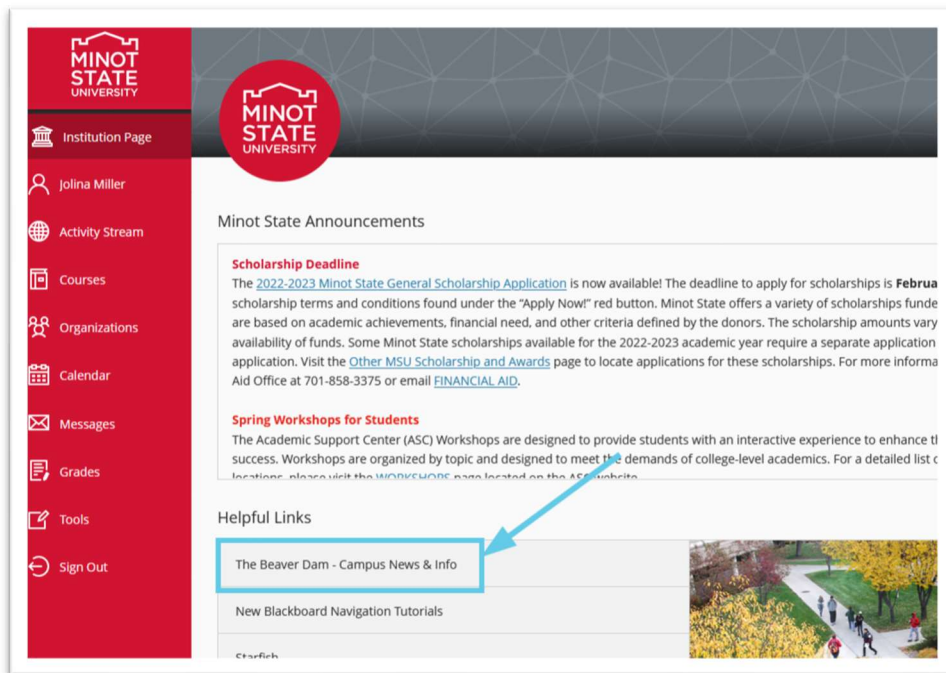

- The content link should now look like the example below. You can drag the link up or down if you need to move it.
