‘The Interview’ workshop gets students ready for new-employee-screening methods

MSU students participate in a Lego building exercise while at the “The Interview” workshop. The workshop provided an opportunity to learn about the Hess Corporation’s highly participatory interviewing and new-employee-screening methods. The Hess Corporation uses the exercise in the interview process to determine attitude and problem-solving skills. “The Interview” was the third event in the “Are You Workplace Ready?” series sponsored by the Student Success Center last week.

Swab your cheek, save a life

By Vanessa Christiuk

If you had the chance to save someone’s life, would you do it? If that chance took ten minutes out of your day, would you do it?

On Tuesday, Nov. 17, the Minot State University cancer biology class will hold a Delete Bone Cancer Swabathon. This is your opportunity to help save a life!

The purpose of the Swabathon is to register new donors onto the National Bone Marrow Registry. Once on the registry, if you are a match for someone with leukemia, a blood cancer, you can donate your bone marrow to them and potentially treat their cancer.

Chris Reinemann, an MSU student, registered at a drive just like this one. There is roughly a one-in-500 chance of being contacted to donate marrow, and Chris was this one.

After joining the registry, which was as simple as filling out a personal information form, rinse your cheek, save a life.

NACAC plans Native American Cultural Celebration events

Minot State University’s Native American Cultural Awareness Club is sponsoring the Native American Cultural Celebration in November. Events, which are free and open to everyone, are in the Conference Center unless designated otherwise, include:

• Nov. 18, 11 a.m. until gone — Fry bread tacos for sale in the Old Main first-floor hallway. Cost is $6.
• Nov. 18, 7 p.m. — In “Success Stories of Two Generations of Three Tribes Males,” Chad Dahlen, rancher and former educator, will use portraiture storytelling for his presentation in Aleshire Theater. This is in conjunction with the Northwest Art Center lecture series.
• Nov. 19, 10 a.m. — AnnMaria De Mars, chief executive officer of 7 Generation Games, will discuss the company’s video games that combine math, Native American history and adventure gaming.
• Nov. 19, 1 p.m. — Duane McGillis, community elder, will speak on the significance of powwow regalia and music.
• Nov. 20, 11 a.m. — The Metis Prairie Steppers, a First Nations dance group from Portage la Prairie, Manitoba, will give the history of the Metis people and dance. Audience participation is encouraged. NACAC and the North Dakota Center for Persons with Disabilities, a Center of Excellence at MSU, are sponsoring this event.

MSU ceramics helps Bowls for Babies
MSU ceramic artists (faculty, students and community members) made bowls to raise money for March of Dimes. On Nov. 18 at the Grand Hotel from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., patrons pay a $20 admission fee, select a bowl of their choice, savor all the delicious soups provided by local restaurants and keep the bowl as a souvenir of their support. Tickets are available at the door, at the March of Dimes website, or at all Gate City Bank locations. All proceeds support the March of Dimes mission to save babies and fight prematurity. For questions, contact Linda.Olson@minotstateu.edu.

Cultural Celebration set for Nov. 19
The MSU Diversity Committee invites all students, faculty and staff to the annual Cultural Celebration on campus. The event, part of International Education Week, celebrates cultures from around the world. Several students, faculty and staff will share an aspect of their home country or native culture through colorful displays, photos, cuisine, music, or other performances. Visit the many booths anytime between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m.
MSU clubs participate in community event for kids

The Minot State University Student Council for Exceptional Children, along with the Optimist Club of Minot, held its annual Community Halloween Party at the Minot Municipal Auditorium Oct. 31.

Booth sponsor volunteers decorated booths, dressed in costume and gave treats to more than 900 children.

MSU clubs and organizations sponsored 22 of the 33 booths.

Best student booth honors went to the MSU Nursing Student Association.

Best costume winner was senior nursing student Paula Cabatingan, as the “Mad Hatter,” from the MSU Sigma Delta Sorority booth.

Participating student organizations were the Accounting Club, Art Club, AUGITE (geology), Beta Theta Sorority, Campus Players, Club Biology, Computer Science Club, Criminal Justice, Honor Society, KMSU, Mu Sigma Tau Fraternity, National Student Speech Language and Hearing Association, Nursing Student Association, Phi Beta Lambda, Psychology and Addictions Studies Club, Residence Hall Association, Science Club, Sigma Delta Sorority, Special Olympics College, Student Ambassadors, Student Council for Exceptional Children, and Student North Dakota United.

Freezin’ for a Reason returns for another year

By Richard Allen
Comm 281

Now that Halloween is behind us, the season of giving has officially begun. Of course, for some the season of giving is a year-round commitment. The Minot Area Homeless Coalition (MAHC), along with the Minot State University Student Social Work Organization (SSWO), is holding an annual food drive, Freezin’ for a Reason, to collect donations for food pantries in the Minot area.

On Saturday, Nov. 14, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., the students will be out in the MarketPlace grocery store parking lot at 1620 S. Broadway with a U-Haul trailer to collect donations of staple food items. They will also accept checks made out to MAHC as well as cash donations.

For 11 years, the SSWO has collected food and money for the homeless and the hungry by standing out in the cold.

“Essentially, our goal is to raise awareness for people living in homelessness while helping them out at the same time.” Hannah-Ruth Patterson, event organizer said.

On any given day in Minot, there are 75 to 100 people living in homeless situations. Last year, the MAHC and the SSWO raised more than $1,700 and 3,300 pounds of food for people in our area who desperately need it. The goal is to beat last year’s totals.

The student volunteers invite everyone to please come out and support Freezin’ for a Reason to lend a helping hand during this holiday season.
The Vent

No Respect

by Frankie Jean-Pierre
Staff Writer

When I was growing up and in high school [many years ago], I seldom witnessed or even heard of kids being violent with teachers and school officials and yet, today, my high school now has police officers on the premises at all times during the day.

The thing that really irritates me about this growing violence and disrespect is that it’s something that, because of how I was raised, it’s difficult to fathom someone having such a low level of respect for authority that they would assault a teacher, principal or police officer.

Recently, the media latched onto some cell phone footage of a police officer flipping a desk and ripping a student from it and arresting her. Then there’s another video where an after-school fight turned into an all-out assault on the police officers while kids stood around and watched, laughing and cooing at the scene.

Let me approach the desk video first because what upset me about this case is that the officer was fired for doing his damn job. Let me explain. When a teacher tells you to get out of your desk and leave the classroom, it’s quite simple – you do it. When the principal comes down and tells you to leave – you do it. When a police officer orders you to get up out of your desk and leave – you do it.

When the officer then goes to move you and you respond by hitting him in the face (a felony offense), you can bet that your butt is going to be forcibly moved from your desk and you’re going to be arrested. The video at first glance looks like an officer randomly appears and decides to flip the desk, throw this girl across the room and arrest her. Well, here’s the issue.

When you have an insubordinate, disrespectful teenager bracing to a desk that is not bolted down and is then forcibly moved, that desk is going to move with her and, when it does, you come up with a video like we’ve seen. In all honesty, the officer should not have been fired for doing his job, because this sends a message out to other officers that if you do your job and things turn violent, you’re likely going to be fired so the department can avoid public scrutiny.

The other video that’s out there and that really pissed me off shows a school fight where two officers respond to break it up and, during the scuffle, one of the girls breaks free and attacks the officer, getting her on the ground and repeatedly punching the officer in the face. Now if that wasn’t bad enough, during this whole thing, dozens of teens are sitting around “oohing” and “awing” at this and cheering the girl on like it’s a freaking sporting event.

I was so infuriated by this video, not just because the officer was openly assaulted, but because nobody stepped in to help her as this teen pummeled the officer’s face. It’s these kinds of events that should cause public outrage, because we have an entire generation that is being brought up with no respect for authority, for others or for themselves.

I can easily make the claim that parents and guardians or lack thereof are responsible for this mentality, but there’s more to it than that. People in general have to be role models and be positive influences in the lives of those around them, particularly those you are supposed to supervise, teach or lead.

It’s up to us as a society to create a change for the better by starting on the individual level. We need to rebuild respect in a society where it’s deteriorated.

Adventures Abroad

Hilsen fra Norge!

By Else-Marie Nelson
Staff Writer

It’s midterm season here at Telemark University College in By. I’ve been quite busy keeping up with assignments and preparing for exams, but I’m still enjoying all the opportunities available to me here in Norway.

I’ve done quite a bit of traveling in the past few weeks – in Norway and elsewhere. I spent the first weekend of October with some friends in Bergen, a city located on the western coast of Norway.

Bergen is a beautiful city, rich with culture and history. We rode the funicular (cable car) to the top of Mt. Fløyen where we experienced a panoramic view of the city. The sun was actually shining that morning - a rare occurrence in this part of the country – so the view was spectacular! We also did some shopping and spent some time simply walking around the city.

I spent four days in Paris in the middle of October with two other Americans who are studying here. I’ve wanted to see Paris for as long as I can remember. I’m so glad that my study abroad experience in Norway gave me the chance to do so!

We walked to the Arc de Triomphe and the Eiffel Tower during our first night in the city. We were standing under the Tower at midnight, eating Nutella and banana crêpes, when suddenly, the tower started sparkling – yes, sparkling! It’s always lit up in the evenings, but at midnight, the lights start flashing. It was incredible – a memory that I will not soon forget.

The next day, we went to the Louvre, where I saw the actual Mona Lisa. She’s rather small – or smaller than people expect her to be. I was impressed nonetheless! We also went to Notre Dame, the Sacré-Coeur Basilica, the Sorbonne, the Palace at Versailles, and numerous French shops and cafés. On our last full day in France, we took a day trip to Normandy to see the American Cemetery at Omaha Beach, where the D-Day landings occurred during World War II. It was a highlight of the trip for me – it’s an area that I would definitely like to visit again someday.

The next weekend, Megan Beyers, a student from Pacific Lutheran University in Washington, and I traveled to Kraków, Poland. Although I enjoyed the other two cities, this was my favorite trip. We did a lot of shopping in Kraków, as it is My take on the presidential election

By Richard Allen
Comm 281

The presidential election is a year away and the United States will have a new president. Say what you will about our political system but there is a certain magic to the previous sentence. The U.S. is one of the few countries to never have had a violent change of leadership since we declared independence from England. Every single U.S. President has willingly stepped down and let the next elected person assume the role of commander-in-chief. I’m not the first to admit that our government is flawed and, at times, downright broken, but it’s pretty amazing that we have never had some crazy coup d’état to decide who our president will be.

The Republican Party’s main front runner is Donald Trump and, while his tax plan makes a lot of sense, and I respect that he is funding his own campaign, his stance on immigration is a bit too hardcore for me. Although maybe someone who is a businessman as opposed to politician could be a nice change of pace.

The Democratic Party’s main candidates are Hilary Clinton and Bernie Sanders. Bernie Sanders is the underdog in this story, however, his campaign is gaining a lot of momentum. He is a self-described socialist and wants to make college and healthcare free for everyone. However, he hasn’t explained how he intends to do that.

A lot can be said about Hilary Clinton and a good portion of it would not be nice. The same could be said about every politician ever, but this politician really dropped the ball on Benghazi.

I only touched on the front runners, because there is good number of people competing to become their party’s primary candidate. However, if you would like to know more about the people running for president, I recommend www.ontheissues.org.

As I write this, I haven’t decided on which candidate I want to support and, if I’m being honest, I haven’t picked which party I like. At the risk of sounding biased, I am a Republican and I have historically voted Republican however, one of the many awesome perks of being an American is, I can vote for whoever I want.

Bone Marrow

mouth with water and swabbing his cheeks for cells, Chris, an art major, was found to be a potential match for someone diagnosed with leukemia.

The process of donation is an easy one. Around 75 percent of the time, the donation is through stem cells that circulate in the blood. An IV is hooked up and the process is very similar to donating late in the blood. A needle is inserted into the bone marrow, a procedure in which the marrow is taken from the pelvic bone.

“I was told that I could be a potential match for someone,” the junior said. “From there, I had to fill out a form and get some blood tests to make sure I will still be healthy for donation.”

He was deemed to be the best match for the patient. For the donation procedure, he had to travel to one of the participating hospitals, all expenses paid. On this trip, more tests were conducted including x-rays, blood tests and fitness. Chris then returned at a later date to the same facility for the donation.

He described the day of his donation.

“I arrived at the hospital at 6 a.m., and the procedure was finished around 8:30. I was discharged later that day. There was a bandage over the site that my bone marrow was donated from. It was a little uncomfortable to sit down, stand up and walk for the first couple days.

After a week, I was back to my usual self.”

The experience is something Chris would gladly do again.

Everyone is encouraged to register, or stop by the booth for more information.

The Swabathon, which is open to everyone, will be set up outside the Beaver Dam Nov. 17 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 8 p.m., and in the Dome, 6:30-7 p.m., during the first half of the women’s basketball game.

much less expensive than Norway! There were a lot of traditional handicrafts available in the city center marketplace. While in Poland, we also took a tour of Auschwitz-Birkenau – the largest concentration camp run by the Nazis during World War II. It was a difficult, but deeply impacting, experience and I’m glad I had the opportunity to see it.

In November, I will be taking some smaller trips in Norway. I am visiting Kristiansand this weekend and I will be traveling to Suldal in a few weeks to see the area where my family came from. I am looking forward to both of these excursions – traveling is so much fun! I can’t believe it’s already November. This experience has gone by so quickly – luckily for me, the memories will last a lifetime.

Men’s hockey continues win streak

By Keith Ailes
Comm 281

The Minot State University men’s hockey team made a statement with two huge wins over the third-ranked Colorado Buffaloes. The Beavers continued their aggressive first period play Friday scoring three goals, setting the tone early. Junior Jeremy Johnson led the charge with two goals in the first period, along with one from senior Cote Dickerson. Colorado also fired back scoring at the end of the first.

Stepping back on the ice for the second period, MSU continued its success with freshman Reece Forman’s first goal as a Beaver, and also one from sophomore Eric Bollefer. Colorado came back with two goals in the third, but sophomore Bryce Lipinski was able to seal the deal for the Beavers with a power play goal making the score 6-3.

In Saturday’s game, both teams put on a show for the Maysa Arena crowd. The Buffalos came back with two goals in the third, but sophomore Bryce Lipinski was able to seal the deal for the Beavers with a power play goal making the score 6-3.

(_MSU Sports Information) — Minot State University finished its Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference Fall Championships at Madden’s on Gull Lake in 12th place, facing a 26 stroke deficit for 11th when the teams come back in the spring.

Everyone is chasing favorite Augustana University for the top spot as the Vikings have a 32-stroke lead over second place Concordia-St. Paul.

Minot State’s top score belongs to junior Kayla Barke who finished with an 86 in round 2, two shots better than in round 1. Barke is tied for 29th overall with a 174.

Senior Danielle Foster, shooting a 96 on day one and a 95 on day two, is tied for 46th with a 191.

Senior Kayla Palczewski is tied for 51st with a 199, while senior Alexandria Bernier is 59th with a 230.

MSU is now off until the spring portion of their schedule.

out early, showing why they are a top-ranked team with a goal from Matt Hefter. Later in the first, sophomore Craig Fornier scored a big, game-tying goal for the Beavers, making it a 1-1 game.

For the third and final period, Minot State came out and played strong with goals by Cole Olsen and Bryce Lipinski giving them a 3-1 lead over Colorado. The Buffs showed life with a late goal in the third, but it wasn’t enough with MSU coming out on top 3-2.

After this weekend’s games, the Beavers are still the only team in the nation remaining undefeated with a 10-0 record, and they look to continue their success on the road this weekend in Arizona.

Strong fight not enough against Minnesota Duluth and St. Cloud

By Isaac Hunt
Sports Writer

The Minot State University volleyball team lost in three sets to the No. 10-ranked Minnesota Duluth Bulldogs Friday evening, but the Beavers did not go down without a fight.

In the first set, the MSU players came out with a solid game but fell, 25-15. The highlight of that first set was freshman libero Logan Desorcy’s defense. Digging seven balls in the set, the newcomer was able to help the Beavers push ahead.

During the second set, however, Desorcy came out with a knee injury, but not before staying in the game and playing through visible pain. Digging a serve and a kill in the second set, she came out of the match at a timeout called by head coach Ben Kaszeta.

“That kid’s got a whole lot of fight,” Kaszeta said. “She didn’t want to come out of the game. I think she knew that she had to. She wanted to stay in there and she wanted to go. She still made a dig with the knee hurting. She has a ton of grit and a ton of fight.”

Without being able to sub in another libero until the third match, senior Tarah Dabovich (MH) went on in the backcourt to give the Beavers help on the defensive end. Without being able to find the rhythm they had in the first set, they fell to the Bulldogs, 25-9.

Coming out in the third set in a green jersey, with the rest of the team wearing white, Alison Fauta (OH, Fr.) was ready to play.

Four named to soccer All-Conference Teams

( _MSU Sports Information) — Four players from Minot State University were named to the soccer All-Conference Teams in the Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference last week.

Ninfa Ramirez (F, Jr.) and Emilee Rebelo (D, Sr.) were named to the All-NSIC First Team for their performances in 2015.

Ramirez led the Beavers offensively, breaking team single season records, with 14 goals and 31 points in the regular season.

Rebelo helped the MSU defensive unit rank third in the NSIC in goals allowed (13) and fourth in shutouts (9). She also added three goals and two assists on the season.

Another key player in the MSU defense was Breanne Hatfield (Sr.) who was named to the All-NSIC Third Team. Hatfield’s two-way play assisted the Beavers in establishing a strong offensive attack, while limiting players she has marked, to help Minot State allow the fewest shots on goal in the NSIC by a comfortable margin.

Hatfield was also able to record three assists on the season.

At midfield, with consistent play all season, Kelli Creese (So.) was the youngest Beaver to earn post season conference honors, being named to the All-NSIC Honorable Mention team. She is one of just five players for Minot State to start in all 19 games this season. Creese was able to record two goals in her 1,483 minutes played.
Beavers head to nationals after defeating Bemidji, falling to Augustana in conference tournament

Beavers defeat Bemidji in first round conference tournament with 3-1 win

In just the second home post season game in the Minot State University soccer team’s history, the Beavers were able to control the game from start to finish, defeating Bemidji State, 3-1.

Controlling the ball early and often, the MSU offense was able to apply pressure due to the balanced play they have shared with their defense all season. Head coach Jason Spain credits his back line and his forward, Ninfa Ramirez, as being the best in the country.

Bemidji State wasn’t able to prove him wrong as they were held to just four shots on goal and were only able to score on a free kick while Ramirez (F, Jr.) put up three points.

The first goal of the game, scored by Ramirez, came at the 31-minute mark and set the pace for the remainder of the match.

“It was really exciting,” Ramirez said. “When we get that first goal it really pumps our team and really gets us going. I think it was more towards the middle of the half and we were starting to die down a little bit, but once I was able to put one in and Taryn scored another goal, I think it kept our team going, kept them pushing.”

Pushing is exactly what the Beavers did as they were able to find a second goal less than seven minutes after their first with a shot from Taryn Love (F, Fr.).

“My defender, she stepped to me, I saw a gap and Nina saw it too,” Love said. “She sent the ball straight through. It was a perfect ball. My touch was a little outside, but I knew that I had the opportunity. [The goalkeeper] was on her front post, so I had to get it on her back post or over her.”

With Ramirez assisting the goal, and recording her third point of the match, she now has 34 points on the season, the most in MSU history. Breaking another record will be senior defender Emilie Rebelo who will have played in more games, 77, than any other Beaver when Minot State takes on Augustana in the second round of the NSIC Tournament.

Rebelo, who scored the third goal of the game, was also part of the defensive unit that held Bemidji State to just seven total shots throughout the 90 minutes. Her play, along with seniors Breanne Hatfield and Haley Lolmaugh and freshman Ashley Franco, helped the Beavers secure a victory and hold a team that averages close to two goals a game to just one.

“I thought we did a great job defensively,” Spain said. “I thought our backline was great. I thought Haley was amazing tonight. [Sarah] Stram is just an amazing striker and then [Rachel] Norton and their midfielder is good, but we kept rotating and rotating and rotating. I think that won out in the end.”

The MSU defense was able to play so well due to what they had seen from Bemidji State earlier in the season and what libero and she made the most of the opportunity, playing out of position and getting two of the Beavers’ eight digs.

“For a kid, who in high school never played that role before, she’s been learning all year and she’s been soaking it up. She played very well,” Kaszeta said.

Knowing his team was up against one of the top opponents in the country, Kaszeta was pleased with the way his team played in the final set despite falling, 25-17.

“We fought very well for us being out of sorts,” Kaszeta said. “We were missing a starter in game three and kept it close up until they made their run. They’re a very well-coached team. Their coach is very well respected and their program is well respected. We can’t hang our heads with a loss that way, especially with the injury.”

Senior Mallory Sall (OH) led the Beavers offensively, ending the match with seven kills. Behind Desorcy’s eight digs was Rachel Fagerburg (OH, So.) with six of her own. Racking up 16 assists, setter Kelsey Dewulf (Fr.) led the team in that category.

On Saturday, Nov. 7, the match against St. Cloud State would be their last at home for four Minot State University volleyball players. In a dramatic five-set series (17-25, 25-22, 20-25, 25-23, 11-15) with 11 lead changes and 20 ties, the Beavers fell to the Huskies, despite a high-level performance from that group of four and the rest of the team.

Seniors Mallory Sall and Tarah Dabovich finished with 19 and seven kills, respectively. Sall also led the team with 16 digs while Dabovich contributed to three blocks.

Juniors Taylor Butters (OH) and Shaunessy Dauwalder (MH) also played in their final home match as they are graduating early. Butters finished the match with 15 kills while Dauwalder ended with 14 of her own, adding six total blocks.

“For as emotional as they were, I thought they played pretty under control,” Kaszeta said. “There were a few early mistakes in the first game, but the rest of the time they were under control. They played like seniors today. They played hard and I liked that.”

Playing with emotions wasn’t the only hurdle Minot State had to overcome as they were playing without standout freshman libero Logan Desorcy, who was sitting out due to an injury.

With 85 total digs, the most all season in a single match, five Beavers ended with more than 10 digs while Desorcy’s replacement, Rachel Fagerburg, recorded 15.

“I thought Rachel stepped in and did a great job in her role,” Kaszeta said. ”She worked her tail off. We had practiced it a couple times during the season just in case and it showed. She stepped right in and was ready to go like it was nothing.”

Freshman setter Kelsey Dewulf recorded 14 digs of her own while tallying a season-high 53 assists.

Minot State has two games remaining on its schedule with the first at Minnesota, Crookston tomorrow and against Bemidji State University in Bemidji Saturday.
they had worked on in practice.

"I know the first time we played them, something that we noticed was that they like to switch a lot," Lolmough said. "In practice, we made sure to attack our runners or we could end up trading, just make sure to discuss it. We were all on the same page back there. They were really fast so we had to make sure to talk and follow our marks."

Late goals thwart MSU in second round

Minot State University’s comeback attempt ended up falling a couple minutes short.

The Beavers rallied from a 1-0 halftime deficit behind a strong second-half effort, eventually tying the game at one, but a late goal by No. 21 Augustana University ended the rally.

Augie’s Emily Jacobson’s long-range free kick found the top left corner of the net with just 2:19 to play in the second half to lift the Vikings to a 2-1 win over Minot State in the semifinals of the Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference Tournament Friday at The Pitch.

"The free-kick goals are killing us," Spain said. "We are nearly impossible to score on during the run of play. We have to be better at defending those. We were chasing the game for so long, and after we leveled it, maybe we took a breath."

The Beavers (15-4-1 overall) started slow but seemed to be warming up when Augie (17-2-1) took its first lead with just 12:19 to play in the first half. Mackenzie Main beat MSU goalkeeper Celene Johnson (Sr., G) with a cross-goal shot.

"Megan’s been playing a lot better," Spain said. "It’s tough on a freshman to come in and keep up at times, but she’s playing like a vet now. She will definitely help us as we move on and she gets more time."

The Beavers had plenty of chances to get a game-winner of their own as they peppered the Vikings in the second half, outshooting Augie 11-1 in the second and 18-8 overall. Machacek finished, with eight saves for Augustana in the win.

"I told the kids afterwards the tournament champion never gets out of the region because our tournament is a grind," Spain said. "We proved we can run a nationally ranked team in the second half and just have to do that for 90 minutes. It might be a blessing in disguise. We will get a little rest now. We were gassed after making our run in 2012."

"This was a good test run for us before a national tournament game. We have to be at that (the second half) level and maintain that if you are going to survive a bracket tournament and advance. We were very good against Bemidji State Wednesday and good for a half here. But we were flat-footed at the start. We have to learn how to keep up the pressure for 90 minutes, 90 minutes, 90 minutes to move on."

Johnson suffered just her fourth loss on the season in goal for MSU and officially didn’t record a save on eight total shots by the Vikings. Ramirez was held off the scoresheet, but took nine shots with three on goal for the Beavers.

MSU fourth seed in NCAA Central Region

Minot State will now play Winona State University in the first round of the NCAA Division II national tournament.

MSU comes into the tournament as the No. 4 team in the Central Region.
