

Completers' Impact on P-12 Student Learning and Development

To demonstrate that our completers impact P-12 student learning and development, the Minot State University Teacher Education Unit conducts case study research with our recent graduates.

The document "Completers' Impact Case Study Research and Report" contains the results of our latest qualitative research project. Eight first-year teachers participated in this study, conducted during the Fall 2017 semester. The participants were all recent graduates of teacher education programs at Minot State University.
